

Journal of Craniomandibular Function

Editor-in-chief: Prof. Dr. Alfons Hugger, Heinrich Heine University Düsseldorf, Germany

Area of publication: worldwide

Target group: dentists with a special interest in functional diagnostics and therapy

Language: English and German

The Journal of Craniomandibular Function is the only journal in German-speaking countries dedicated to functional questions within dentistry and beyond. In addition to bruxism and TMD, it covers a broad spectrum of topics and pursues an interdisciplinary approach. The journal reports bilingually in German and English and is therefore internationally renowned.

Official journal of the German Society for Functional Diagnostics and Therapy (DGFD)

Issue 4 is always published with a supplement for the annual meeting of the DGFD (abstract issue for meeting participants).

Current original and review studies, clinical case reports, interesting study results, practical tips, congress reports, guidelines, and practical reports are published from across the field of functional diagnostics and therapy.

In addition, the journal informs readers about news from the professional societies and provides current congress information and book reviews.
